"A designer is a planner with an aesthetic sense."

- Bruno Munari

Introduction

Archiol has organized this first edition of the ADMY- Architecture Model of the Year Award to highlight the importance of model making in architecture design.

The ADMY – Architecture Model of the Year is an annual international competition organized by archiol with the aim to encourage model making in design. Design models are a way for the designer to bring their ideas to life on a small scale. Architecture models have the potential to show the spaces and workability of your design with ease, especially for the clients with non-architectural background.

This is the first edition ADMY – Architecture Model of the Year 2023; the participants are expected to submit their best design models to compete for the ADMY. The organizers aim to promote model making in design.

If you have model ready for global exposure, then; submit your entry now!
